Prime Graphics Wins Silver Award From Flexographic Technology Association

(Wood Dale, IL, September 8, 2009) – Prime Graphics, Inc., a market-leading provider of innovative decorative packaging, received the silver award in the Flexographic Technical Association's annual Excellence in Flexography Awards Competition.

Featured in the May 2009 issue of FLEXO Magazine, Epic Pro 4 Nitro Tropic Lemonade received the Flexographic Technical Association's Excellence in Flexography Silver Award for Technical Merit in the Narrow Web Category. The packaging was acknowledged for its use of metallic inks in creating attention-grabbing shelf appeal. Prime Graphics produced an exceptionally clean look, while managing challenging graphics within tight tolerances, through utilization of higher line screens.

The competition is open to all flexographic printers, print buyers and qualified graphic arts schools throughout the world. The award not only recognizes ongoing technological growth for industry professionals, but it also sets a standard of achievement that other printers pursue to be universally recognized as accomplished printing solution innovators.

"I am very proud of our team for receiving the FTA Silver award. This achievement underscores our ability to exceed customer expectation, provide quality and innovation." said Greg Grasso, Vice President of Operations. "As a smaller company, we constantly have to prove ourselves – and with this recognition, we have shown that we can offer viable solutions in the shrink sleeve market."

As an industry leader, Prime Graphics continually receives recognition for its quality and technical expertise. Prime Graphics was also recently awarded the Flexible Packaging Association's Honorable Mention for Print Excellence.
